PRESS COMMUNIQUE

Fort St. George, September 21, 1938.

No. 770.—

In G.O. No. 1859, Development, dated 30th July 1938, the Government appointed Khan Bahadur Javad Hussain Khan, Bar.-at-Law, Collector of Madras as a Court of Enquiry under the Trade Disputes Act, 1929, to enquire into the dispute that had arisen between the workers and the management of the Western India Match Company, Limited, Tiruvottiyur. The Government have now received the report of the Court and direct that it be published in the Fort St. George Gazette as required by section 12 (1) of the Act.

2. In commending the recommendations of the Court of Enquiry to the parties for acceptance the Government desire to emphasise the fact that the surest safeguard against costly trade disputes lies in the maintenance of cordial relations between the employers and the workers' organizations. The parties to the dispute should, in the opinion of the Government, do their utmost to avoid direct action and thus save themselves from the consequences which such action would involve in the shape of loss of working days, loss of wages and loss of reasonable return on the capital invested. In the matter of negotiations between capital and labour the last word the Government believe is never said.

ENCLOSURE.

REPORT OF THE COURT OF ENQUIRY.

1. On the 12th of May 1938 the workers of the Western India Match Company, Limited, Tiruvottiyur, struck work, consequent on the refusal of the management to accede to certain demands put forward by them. The Government intervened and as a result both parties agreed to a Court of Enquiry being appointed. The Government, in their press communiqué, dated 30th July 1938, were pleased to appoint me as the Court, and, in the same communiqué, the Government directed that the Court should submit its findings on two points, namely—

(1) the pay, emoluments and facilities granted by the Western India Match Company, Limited, to the workers in Madras in comparison with the pay, emoluments and facilities granted by other industries in the Presidency to their workers and particularly the pay, emoluments and facilities granted to their workers by other match manufacturers in the Madras Presidency, and

(2) the Court's recommendations in the above matters.

This Court started its regular enquiry on Monday, the 12th instant and finished on the 15th instant. It could not be started earlier due to various causes.

2. Before I proceed further I think it only fair to say that both sides appearing before the Court with their Solicitor and Advocate rendered their whole-hearted co-operation and the early termination of the enquiry is in no small measure due to this factor. Also, both sides, quite naturally and without hesitation, placed all available materials with their before the Court to help it arrive at its conclusions. To both sides my warm thanks are therefore due. I think I must also say here that the enquiry was conducted in a most friendly and cordial atmosphere and there has been absolutely no trace of any bitterness in either side consequent on the happenings of May 1938. This is as it should be.

3. One witness (Mr. Hybhuttie, Manager of the Wimco Factory at Tiruvottiyur) was examined for the Company and eleven witnesses for the workers.

4. Point (2) of the press communiqué—(i) Emoluments.—I deal with this item first because it is the easiest. The only emolument granted by the Company is an attendance bonus of two and a half days' pay to every worker who attends regularly and does not absent himself or herself on any day. Should, however, a worker fall ill and be absent for only a day, the full bonus is paid; but should he or she be absent for two days then he or she gets only one and a quarter days' bonus; and, should the sickness cover a period of three days, the worker gets nothing. It must be understood here that, apart from his or her losing this future bonus or a part of it as the case may be, in relation to the number of days absent, the worker does not get paid the daily wage for the day on which he or she is sick. This point apart, it seems to me that the two and a half days' pay given as bonus by the Western India Match Company is not given by any other major industry to its employees, as can be gathered from the evidence of respondent witnesses 1, 2, 3 and 6, except in the case of one company as spoken to by respondent witness 3. The excepted company gives a bonus every six months of 10 per cent of the workers' wages. This then as regards "emoluments."

(ii) Pay (point 1 of the communiqué)—(a) Evidence was led in by the respondent to show that the Western India Match Company has been reducing its rates of wages gradually from 1933 (vide evidence of respondent witnesses 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11). The evidence of the Manager, Western India Match Company [Mr. Hybhuttie (plaintiff witness 1)] is to the effect that while, no doubt, the earnings of the workers were reduced in some cases, they have increased in others. Whatever that may be—and I am not directly concerned with the question of rates of wages in the past in this enquiry—I have made a comparison of the rates paid by the Western India Match Company with the rates paid by certain other industries in the city and find them to be very favourable. In fact, in certain cases, such as in the case of skilled workmen like 'fitters', 'carpenters', 'firemen' and 'engine-drivers' the rates generally are higher than in some other companies. Even in the case of unskilled labour like 'coolies,' I find the rates compare not unfavourably. For the sake of convenience I attach a comparative statement (Appendix) prepared from the evidence of witnesses and from Exhibit A. It will give, at a glance the information required, without having to go into the exhibits filed and into the evidence of witnesses. I may also state here that the figures in the statement do not include the attendance bonus referred to in paragraph 4 (i) above.

(b) As regards Satur Match Factories, I have thought it unnecessary to call for any evidence from them in view of the report of Mr. Ramanujam (Exhibit G), filed on behalf of the Western India Match Company. The wage paid to the workers in these factories is very low and this is not generally disputed. But, on the other hand it must be understood that wages paid in the factories at Satur cannot be taken for purposes of comparison with those paid by the Western India Match Company. It seems to me that the factories such as the ones at Satur are practically cottage industries, and it would be unfair to compare their rates with the rates paid by a company like the Western India Match Company.

(iii) Facilities (point 3 of the communiqué)—(a) Leave with pay.—As regards "facilities" I may at once say that there are other industries in the city (vide evidence of respondent witnesses 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5) which provide better and higher facilities than the Western India Match Company, i.e., in the matter of 'leave with pay,' holidays, sick leave, and grant of loans to its employees. Some of the other firms referred to by me seem rather generous with the "holidays with pay," granted to their employees. In fact one of the companies which employs a very large number of workmen has a provident fund scheme for its workers and to this it contributes from its own funds a percentage of wage (5 per cent to 10 per cent) depending on the number of years of service put in by the worker and the amount contributed by him to the fund. There is also the evidence of respondent witness 4, General Secretary of the Tramway and Electric Supply Workers' Union to say that there is a provident fund for both companies to which each worker (at his option) contributes one anna and the companies an equal amount.

(b) Medical attendance.—The Western India Match Company Factory at Tiruvottiyur maintains a dispensary but it does not appear to be very effective according to the answer of respondent witness 6 to a question put by Court. Certain other companies seem to have better medical facilities for their workers.

(c) Quarters.—The number of workers in the Western India Match Company is about 750 and quarters have been provided for about 70 of these. A number of workers have to come over long distances from villages, but, I do not think that the Western India Match Company is alone in this matter of an insufficient numbers of quarters for its employees. It seems no worse than a certain other company in regard to which alone evidence on this specific point of "quarters" was elected. As regards workers coming from long distances, it is, no doubt, a hardship, but, as matters stand at present I do not think it would be fair to insist on the company constructing quarters to accommodate the whole lot of them. Besides, the company seems to be working at a loss in regard to the matter on these quarters. I have personally inspected some of the quarters and think that the rent charged is reasonable. Thus apart, the company provides electric light and water free to the quarters.

(d) Hours of work.—Nine and a half hours is the number of hours of work. The union wants a 7-hour day with no reduction in wages. This, of course, is not possible. In some other major companies, however, the hours of work are 8, 8½ and 9.

(e) Punishments.—In its statement filed the company has stated that no worker is punished without an opportunity being given to him of explaining things and that it would be premature to allow a representative of the union to participate in an enquiry against the worker. The union's point is that no worker should be punished in any manner without proper enquiries in which its representative should be allowed to participate. I am afraid I cannot agree to the principle enunciated by the union. So long as proper enquiry is made before any punishment is meted out, I think that, if the punishment appears just and is not vindictive, there ought to be no grievance on the point. Personally, I would not agree to the union's point of view.

5 Recommendations.—To sum up, the following are my recommendations and these I make, after the fullest consideration of everything 'for' and 'against' both sides:—

(i) Leave with pay.—In view of the fact that the demand is very reasonable and also as some other industries in the city are already granting it and have not waited for legislation on the point, I recommend that ten days' casual leave be granted to the workers. It was contended on behalf of the company that there was no legislation. The argument seems to me to be fallacious. If there is legislation to enforce grant of holidays, the company would be bound to grant them and no other go would be left to it. But it is nowhere stated that, if there is no legislation, there should be no holidays with pay. The other companies referred to by me in this report do not appear to have waited for legislation in the matter. I make this modest recommendation of ten days in view of the attendance bonus already being paid and of course, I recommend that it should continue without interference with reference to the matter of holidays with pay.

Another argument advanced is that the other companies are long standing ones, whereas the one at Tiruvottiyur is only of about ten years' standing. I see no point in the argument. Though the idea of holidays with pay may have struck certain other companies after a certain number of years, that does not appear to be a proper reason why the Tiruvottiyur factory should wait for an equally long period before the idea strikes it.

As regards the extra cost to the company paragraph 6 of its counter statement says that it would cost the company Rs. 15,000 a year if casual leave for fifteen days and sick leave for ten days, or twenty-five days in all, were granted. It follows then that the cost for ten days' casual leave would be two-fifths of Rs. 15,000 or Rs. 6,000, which, I consider, the company can well afford.

The percentages of wages to the cost of production as given in Exhibit B for 1937 is 14·14 and an addition of Rs. 6,000 or thereabouts would not, in my opinion, increase the cost in any material degree, nor would it make any appreciable reduction in the dividends paid by the company. The dividends paid were 0 per cent in 1933, 4 per cent in 1934, 2 per cent in 1935, 4 per cent in 1936 and 8 per cent in 1937. The dividends are, of course, not high and I have taken that factor into consideration in making the recommendation.

(ii) Pay.—In view of what I have set out in paragraph 4 (ii) above, I do not think I shall be justified in recommending any increase. As already stated, the company's rates are quite favourable and the dividends declared so far are none too high; in fact 8 per cent having been reached only in 1937. (Please see balance sheets and profit and loss account of the company for years 1933 to 1937.)

(iii) Medical attendance.—A more fully equipped dispensary may be maintained.

(iv) Quarters.—In view of the loss incurred by the company on the already existing quarters and in view of the low dividends (it is only in one year 8 per cent has been declared) I do not think that the company will be able to spend large amounts for, perhaps, sometime to come. I therefore would make no recommendation in this respect as things stand now.

(v) Hours of work. In view of my recommendation in regard to leave with pay, I make no recommendation.

(vi) Punishments.—I have already said that the existing state of things may continue. I presume, however, that a copy of the order setting forth reasons for the punishment is communicated to the worker concerned. If this is not being done, it is my opinion that it should be, in fairness.

JAMES HENRY,
Court of Enquiry.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of State on the 6th September, 1938:—

C OF S. BILL No 3 OF 1938.

A Bill to regulate (restrain) polygamy in British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate polygamy in British India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1 This Act shall be called the Polygamous Marriage Regulation Act, 193 .

It shall come into force on such date and in such provinces as the Governor-General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, appoint.

The District Judge includes the High Court in its ordinary original jurisdiction.

2 It shall apply to all marriages celebrated in British India, and shall apply to all persons domiciled in British India.

3. (1) No one shall marry during the lifetime of his wife or during the subsistence of a valid legal marriage with her except in cases mentioned in section 4

(2) Anyone purporting to marry in contravention of the above sub-section shall be liable to an imprisonment of six months, and all such marriages shall be deemed to be void.

4 (1) A male may marry, if otherwise permitted under any law or custom for the time being in force, during the lifetime of his wife in case—

(a) where she is permanently invalid; or

(b) insane; or

(c) she is suffering from an incurable or loathsome disease, or

(d) unchaste; or

(e) where the wife has left the protection of the husband without reasonable and sufficient cause, or

(f) she is unfit habitually to fulfil her marital obligations; and where such fulfilment would result in grave injury to her

(2) A male before marrying under the above sub-section shall obtain permission from the District Judge of the district where the husband and wife have last resided together

5. (1) Any male applying for permission under section 4 (d) to the District Judge, shall state clearly the reasons and the grounds of excuse on enabling him to marry, and verify it in the manner prescribed in the Civil Procedure Code.

(2) A copy of the petition shall be served personally upon the wife, or if she is a minor, to such guardian for marriage under her personal law who could have given her away in marriage.

(3) A copy of the petition shall also be served upon the Government Pleader of the district and the Advocate-General who may, if he likes, appear and make his submissions to the Court

(4) The District Judge, after giving reasonable opportunity to the wife to appear and to oppose such application for permission, may, if he is satisfied that a proper case is made out by the husband, grant the necessary permission Such certificate shall be conclusive evidence of conditions enabling the applicant to marry under section 4 (1)

(5) The decision of the District Judge shall be final and shall under no circumstances be revised by the High Court.

(6) A register of such certificates given under section 5 (4) shall be kept permanently in the Court of the District Judge, and shall be open to inspection.

(7) The Governor-General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, exempt any class or classes from the operation of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to regulate (restrict) polygamy in British India. It is quite true that at the present moment the percentage of polygamous marriages is very small, but the very possibility that the husband can marry again during the lifetime of his wife without any reasonable and probable cause lowers the position of women in this country. In certain exceptional cases polygamy is permitted under this Bill but checks have been provided.

SUSIL KUMAR ROY CHOWDHURY

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of State on the 6th September 1938 —

C OF S. BILL No. 4 OF 1938

A Bill to declare illegal polygamous marriages among Hindus.

WHEREAS it is expedient to forbid and declare illegal a marriage contracted by a Hindu with another woman in the lifetime of his wife; It is hereby enacted as follows —

1 (1) This Act may be called the Hindu Polygamous Marriage Restraint Act of 1938.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India and shall come into force on such date as it receives the assent of the Governor General.

2 Notwithstanding any rule of Hindu Law or custom to the contrary, a marriage contracted by a Hindu after the commencement of this Act with another woman in the lifetime of his wife shall be void, and the provisions of sections 494 and 495 of the Indian Penal Code shall apply to such marriage:

Provided that this section shall not apply to a marriage contracted by a Hindu after dissolution, where permissible by law, of his marriage with his former wife has been granted by competent authority or the marriage has been otherwise validly dissolved, where, by law or custom, a dissolution of marriage is permissible.

3 The provisions of this Act shall apply to a Hindu even after his conversion to another religion.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Although polygamy has been looked upon with disfavour by Hindu jurists and society the Hindu Law does not prevent male persons from marrying any number of wives, irrespective of their having one or more wives alive. Flagrant cases of the abuse of this liberty given to men under the Hindu Law have come to light during recent years. In order to prevent the growth of such an evil, it is desirable to restrain polygamous marriages among the Hindus by law.

C. S. MUTILAL.

M. N. MUKERJI.

SIMLA,
The 15th August 1938.

NOTES.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

The Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879.—The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, removed the first paragraph of section 39, which contained the expression 'the general purposes of this Act.' The alteration now made makes the necessary consequential change in the wording of the second paragraph.

The Indian Soap Act, 1882.—The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, removed section 8. The alteration now made omits from section 1 the reference to section 8.

The Punjab University Act, 1882.—Paragraph 4 of the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, substituted the words "Central Government" for the words "Governor General" in sub-section (2) of section 2. This change is obviously inappropriate and the original words are restored.

The Indian Railways Act, 1890.—(1) The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, removed sections 26 to 40. These sections, which formed part of Chapter V, dealt with railway commissions. The headings and sub-headings of the Chapter being no longer appropriate, now that the Chapter deals only with traffic facilities, are revised accordingly.

(2) The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, substituted a new sub-section for sub-section (3) of section 97. The original sub-section contained the expression "the foregoing provisions of this Chapter" and it was by reference to that expression that the words "in those provisions" in section 98 were interpretable. The necessary consequential change is now made.

The Victoria Memorial Act, 1903.—The wording of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 1 has been brought up to date.

The Foreign Marriage Act, 1903.—The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, omits refer ing references to Burma wherever they occur in any Central Act, but by an oversight the words "the Shan States" in sub-section (2) of section 1 have not been omitted. This oversight is now rectified.

The Indian Universities Act, 1904.—(1) Sub-section (2) of section 6 originally commenced with the words "In the case of the Universities of Calcutta, Bombay and Madras." The word "Madras" was omitted by the Madras University Act, 1923, section 55 and schedule II, and the word "Bombay" was omitted by the Bombay University Act, 1928, section 52 and Schedule. The necessary consequential change is now made.

(2) The original words in sub-section (2) of section 8 were "until the Chancellor with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council and by notification in the local official Gazette, so directs." The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, substituted the word "Government" for the words "Chancellor, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council" but overlooked the word "and" which is superfluous.

(6) The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, amended the first entry under the heading "The Municipals of the Punjab" by substituting "High Court at Lahore" for "Chief Court of the Punjab" leaving the words "Chief Judge" unaltered. The necessary change is now made.

The Indian Limitation Act, 1908.—Article 4 of the First Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1908 was repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1937 (XX of 1937). The necessity for omitting the reference to this article, which is contained in article 7 of the same Schedule, was however overlooked by the Act of 1937 and this omission is now set right.

The Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911.—The references to "the Secretary of State for India in Council" in sub-section (2) and (3) of section 21A have been suitably adapted by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, but by an oversight the reference in sub-section (1A) of the same section have not been omitted. This oversight is now rectified.

The Indian Companies Act, 1913.—(1) The word "to," a clerical error which found its way into the Act through the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936, and occurs in the assent copy of that Act, is removed.

(2) After the substitution of the words "Central Government" for the original words "Local Government" by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, the expression "such Central Government" is inappropriate and is therefore amended.

(3) The word "to", a clerical error which found its way into the Act through the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1936, and occurs in the assent copy of that Act, is removed.

The Provincial Insolvency Act, 1920.—Section 20 of the Act is not divided into sub-sections and the reference in "this sub-section" which occurs in the last sentence thereof is clearly wrong. The error which also occurs in the assent copy of the Act is here set right.

The Cantonments Act, 1924.—(1) The Cantonments (Amendment) Act, 1936, removed the previously existing distinction between Cantonment Boards and Cantonment Authorities, and by section 60 substituted for the expression "Cantonment Authority" throughout the Act the expression "Board." The effect of this general provision when applied to the heading of Chapter III is to produce the inaccurate and tautological heading "Boards and Cantonment Boards," which is here corrected.

(2) In sections 219, 191 and 233, when the expression "Cantonment Authority" was altered by the amending Act of 1936 to "Board," the necessity for changing the expression "Authority" escaped notice.

The Trade Disputes Act, 1929.—The Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, altered the words "or by a railway company" in section 16 of the Act. When the new section 18A was inserted by the amending Act passed in 1932 the necessity of similarly altering these words in section 18A was overlooked. The change of the words "them" and "their" is made to bring the wording into conformity with that used elsewhere in Indian Statutes.

The Indian Tea Control Act, 1933.—Opportunity has been taken to make certain verbal alterations and to correct a clerical error which occurs in the assent copy of the Act.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

The Indian Coasting Trade Act, 1850.—This Act was passed on the authority of an English Statute of 1849, 12 and 13 Vict., c. 29, enabling the Governor General of India in Council to make regulations authorising or permitting the conveyance of goods or passengers from one part of the Possessions of the East India Company to another part thereof in other than British ships, subject to such restrictions or Provisions as he might think necessary. Section 329 of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1853, 16 and 17 Vict., c. 107, replaced on the English Statute-Book the provisions of 12 and 13 Vict., c. 20. With the repeal by the Government of India Act, 1935, of section 329 of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1853, any necessity for keeping the Indian Coasting Trade Act, 1850, on the Statute-Book disappears.

The Indian Emigration Act, 1922.—Under section 32 the operation of the provisions of the Act was suspended for a period of twelve months from the commencement thereof in respect of persons emigrating to Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, or any protected Native State adjoining the Straits Settlements. The section is now spent.

The Indian Boilers Act, 1923.—Under the second proviso to section 6, the operation of that section was suspended for a period of twelve months from the commencement of the Act in regard to the use of boilers in any local area in which the registration of, or a certificate or licence for the use of, such boilers was not previously required by law. The proviso is now spent.

The Mussalman Wakf Act, 1923.—The words which it is proposed to omit from clause (a) of section 5 ceased to have any significance when on the expiry of one year from the commencement of the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1930, the declaration made before the commencement of that Act under the provisions of section 144 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, as that section stood before the commencement of the 1930 Act, entitling the members of certain specified institutions and associations to be appointed and to act as auditors of companies throughout British India were, by the operation of section 3 of the Act of 1930, deemed to be cancelled.

The Central Board of Revenue Act, 1924.—Section 4 and the Schedule make textual amendments in certain existing Acts. When the comprehensive Repealing Act passed in 1938, Act I of 1938 was prepared for submission to the Legislature, this item was inadvertently omitted.

The Transfer of Property (Amendment) Supplementary Act 1929.—When sections 2 to 14 were repealed by the comprehensive Repealing Act of 1938, Act I of 1938, the Schedule to which section 3 refers was not specifically mentioned for repeal, though the repeal of section 3 virtually repealed the Schedule. This omission is now rectified.

The Safeguarding of Industries Act, 1933.—The Act was of limited duration and ceased to be in force on the 31st day of March 1938. Its formal repeal will enable it to be excluded from the Statute-Book.
